Early Season Weed Control

EFFICAX® optimizes the performance of soil-applied herbicides.

SOIL RETENTION
EFFICAX®

EFFICAX® utilizes proprietary technology and is designed for customers who want to optimize residual activity from their pre-plant/preemergent chemistry. EFFICAX helps to increase spray deposits of the spray material, allowing for better coverage and adhesion to soil particles, resulting in enhanced control of early season weed pressures. EFFICAX is labeled for use in agriculture, forestry, golf course, industrial, non-cropland, roadside, turf, and ornamental.

BENEFITS OF EFFICAX

- Excellent absorption and adhesion properties, better performance
- Enhances residual activity, improves weed control
- Increased deposition, better coverage

EFFICAX®

EFFICAX is designed to improve the residual activity of most soil-applied herbicides. Utilizing proprietary technology, EFFICAX enhances control of early season weeds by increasing the coverage, absorption, and adhesion of spray material deposits onto the soil particles.

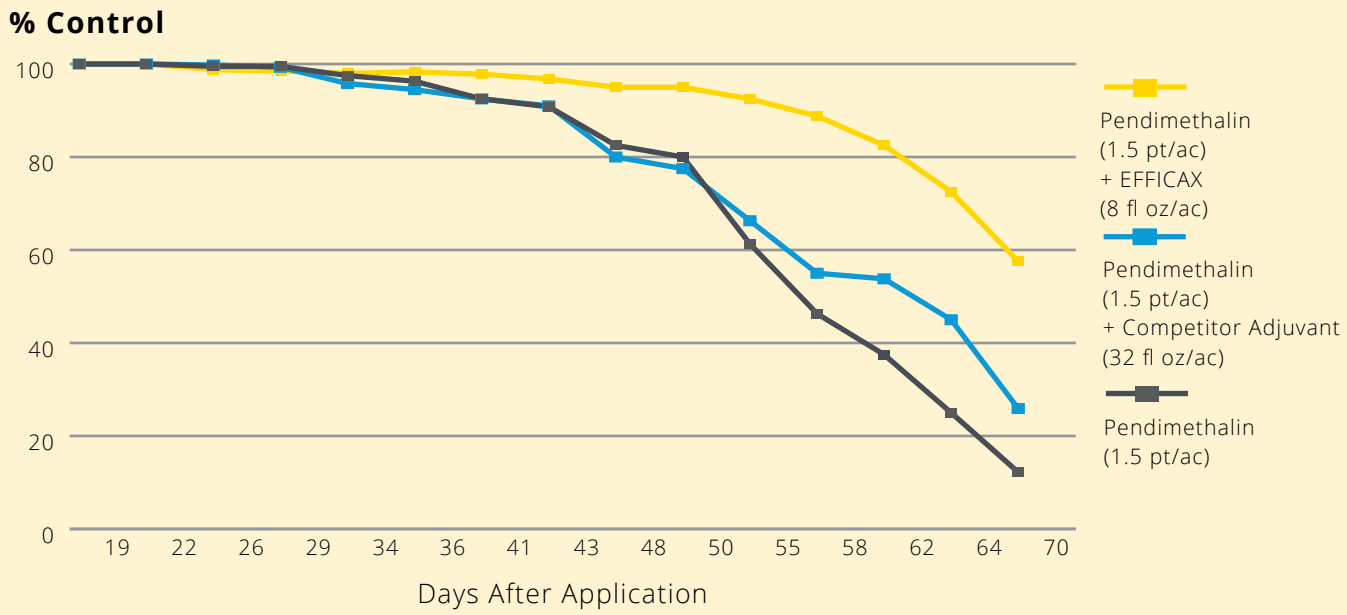
FEATURES

- Increases residual activity of the herbicide (time and effectiveness)
- esterified seed oil base
- Creates more uniform droplets and less spray drift
- Formulation provides excellent tank mix compatibility

BENEFITS

- Improved control of targeted weed species
- Active ingredient(s) readily associates with the formulation components
- Increased deposition of spray material onto the intended target
- Compatible with a wide range of tank mixes

EFFICAX improves residual herbicide activity of soil-applied pendimethalin



In the top line, note how the addition of EFFICAX to pendimethalin holds back germination of common purslane over a longer period of time than pendimethalin alone.

For example: 48 days after spray the herbicide alone has only controlled 83% of the purslane, but pendimethalin + EFFICAX is still controlling 95% of the purslane.
